A brand new image

Chamber of Commerce seeks suggestions for county's new slogan

PAUL FERGUSON

Staff Reporter

It's a case of out with the old and in with the new as Haliburton County searches for a new brand image.

The slogan, "Closer than you think", just doesn't have the same appeal as it did over a decade ago.

"It is old, it is dated. There are a couple other communities out there that use 'Closer than you think'," Peter Rigby of the Haliburton Highlands Chamber of Commerce says.

Unless you know something about brand imaging you may not realize how important it can be to a community. This one image, accompanied by a couple choice words, can have a huge economic impact on a community.

"Brand imagining basically is a combination of a logo and slogan and colours that creates something that is viewed as being synonymous with the area. It is basically a snapshot of Haliburton that people will recognize quickly," Rigby said. "It is basically the spring board from which we launch our marketing."

The Haliburton Highlands would use its brand image in marketing material, letterheads, and newspaper ads.

The county will own the image and the Chamber of Commerce will grant businesses permission to use it as long as it is used in good taste.

Due to the importance of creating a new brand image, Rigby says it was important to hire someone with experience and a strong portfolio.

Kenneth Caplan and Associates out of Markham has been successful in designing brand images for communities such as North Bay, Wasaga Beach and Perry Sound and was hired over two local companies.

Caplan and the Chamber of Commerce will be working together over the next several months in order to ensure that a final product is of high quality.

A public consultation meeting with Caplan will take place on June 8 at 7:30 p.m. at the Pinestone resort. During this time people will be able to tell Caplan what Haliburton is all about.

"Part of the process is public input. We want people to be there in order to help us in converging concepts and ideas and what the area's about," said Rigby.

Caplan will then take the public input and create two or three ideas, which will be presented to the Marketing and Economic Diversification Committee made up of 12 people from various sectors of the Highlands.

After the committee's suggestions and changes, the image is presented to a focus group consisting of 50 to 100 people. The

Park site

ERIK MARTENSSON

Staff Reporter

As the excitement of the announcement of a Canadian Tire going into the Minden Business Park wears off, The Echo has learned that the tenant of the park has not yet been officially confirmed as Canadian Tire.

"There is potential that a Canadian Tire will go there," said Canadian Tire spokesperson Jennifer Sexton. "But nothing is definite at this point. No decisions are made."

Sexton said that Canadian Tire is currently assessing the property and a decision will be made at some time in the future.

"As a normal course, Canadian Tire will review sites and that's what we're doing now at the Minden location. It takes time."

Christopher Serrie, managing partner of FAI Canada Development Corporation, the firm that is finalizing arrangements to buy the Business Park, also confirmed that it is not official a Canadian Tire will be one of the tenants.

"Is it final and is it finished? No. Is there intent to go through and complete this? Yes. Do we have final approvals and signed off. No."

The Ministry of Health has announced that 96 new news and events worth noting

A recent poll conducted by the Ontario Secondary School Teachers Federation of teachers in the seven Trillium Lakelands high schools and community learning centre says more than 99% of teachers do not favour the implementation of Bill 74. Among other initiatives, this law will give a principal the authority to force a teacher to contribute to extra curricular activities and, the union says, give the Minister of Education the power to override agreements between local school boards and teachers.

David Globerman, president of the "Running to Daylight Foundation" will be the guest speaker at Haliburton County Home Support Services' annual general meeting on June 7 from 9:30 till noon at the Haliburton Legion's Mountbatten Room. Home Support encourages people to attend the meeting and become involved with the volunteer organization which helps seniors and people with disabilities maintain their independence in their homes. "If you're no longer young and you find yourself in need of medical care, who's going to speak up for you?" For more information, or to register, call 457-2941.

Spring has arrived at Petroglyphs Provincial Park. Spring peepers, robins and barren-ground strawberries are some of the signs that herald the beginning of another park season. Four hiking trails, from five to 16 kilometres in length, are a great way to discover spring and the Park's petroglyphs, made over a 500-year period from 600 to 1100 years ago by Algonkian speaking natives. Trent Severn Waterway report

The heavy rains received the week of May 8 increased water levels and flows throughout the Trent and Severn watersheds.

The week began with the Haliburton lakes at 95% full which is near normal for this time of year. As the rains fell, the lakes reached 103% by the week's end. Water was released throughout the week in an attempt to minimize the effects of flooding due to excess water, resulting in higher than average flows. The higher velocity flow is still continuing from the Haliburton lakes.

Since the flow rate did not reduce appreciably within safe navigation range before the slated opening of the Trent-Severn Waterway on May 19, the opening of some sections of the waterway was postponed until conditions are rendered navigable.

*Haliburton Hospital's new emergency department values
patient privacy*

MARTHA PERKINS

Editor

Everyone who has had to visit the old emergency department at Haliburton Hospital can tell you all about what was wrong about the facility.

Those people could all be spokespeople to talk about what's so good about the new facility, which opened last week.

The main advantage is the privacy. Given the cramped quarters of the old facility, this was impossible to offer before. But with three times the floor space and individual rooms, some with doors, at the new facility, both patients and staff will really appreciate the enhanced sense of privacy.

The waiting room is larger and there's a small room beside the admitting desk where patients can explain what brought them to the hospital. There was no such privacy available before, and it should therefore be easier for staff to quickly find out what's the matter.

There are three observation beds in the open area of the hospital with privacy curtains.

Down the hall are three examination rooms and two trauma rooms, all offering privacy. An added advantage with the trauma rooms is that they are close to the separate entrance for the ambulances. No longer will people on stretchers have to go from the ambulance through the waiting room.

There's also a new room for the x-ray machine and a private area for doctors, as well as a supply room and easily accessible files.

While the staff will also appreciate the newfound sense of patient privacy, they are perhaps more directly affected by such things as IV poles attached to the beds, to help them avoid having to look for one, and a wall supply of oxygen and suction, eliminating the need to transport 2,000-lb tanks of oxygen.

"It will be such a luxury for us," nurse Nancy Roberts says of many of the new features.

Entrance to the emergency department is directly off County Road 1.

Last week, the newly refurbished emergency department opened its automatic doors, and while most people hope they don't have cause to visit the facility, such a visit won't be as uncomfortable as it used to be. There is a private room for triage, where patients can explain what's the matter, three treatment rooms with doors, three observation beds with curtains and two trauma rooms (at left) which are close to the separate entrance for the ambulance. Staff such as Mary Hamilton, at top, also enjoy the new sense of space, which Susie Roberts, above, can appreciate in the waiting room. (The hospital doesn't promise the magazines will be more current, however.)

group will include people from outside the Haliburton region who represent the population at large. They will be answering questions and giving their input on the image. Does it make them curious? Does it get their attention? Do they get a good reaction from it?

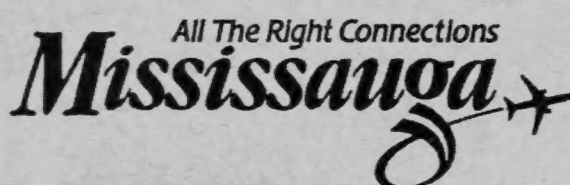

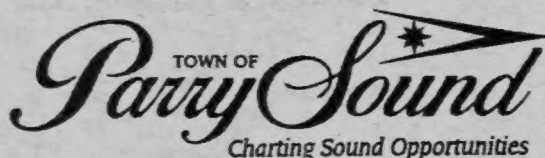

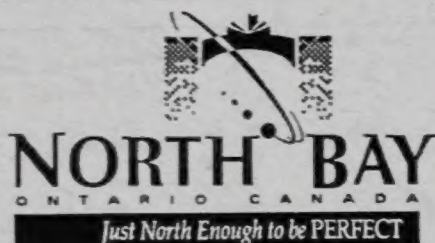

The committee then reviews the findings and a presentation is done at the Pinestone on August 24 at 7:30 to the public.

The final brand image will then be presented to county council along with some products using the new image.

The entire process should be completed by the end of August.

With so much riding on one image, Rigby wants to encourage as much public input as possible in order for it to be a success in the end.

"Our image here in Haliburton has to be as good as if not better than just about anyone else out

These are some of the "brand images" previously designed by Kenneth Caplan and Associates, which has been hired to do the same type of work for Haliburton County. Public input is sought at a June 8 meeting.

Kennisis Lake asks for development impact study

PAUL FERGUSON

Staff Reporter

The following are brief reports of items discussed at the May 20 meeting of the Kennisis Lake Property Owners Association at Haliburton Forest.

The general meeting gave Gary Vasey a chance to field questions about his on going land developments of Kennisis Lake.

Already 19 lakefront properties have been sold since Easter weekend, which leaves 12 still remaining to be sold in phase one.

Some concern was raised about over developing the land. Thus, a motion was carried to get a survey done to establish how many cottages should be allowed on the lake without destroying its ecology.

The lots have been appraised and are currently valued between $30,000 to $40,000 each.

Construction will continue throughout the summer and the new road from County Road 7 to Cat Bay will be completed by September.

Lake conditions

Not everyone was happy with the high water conditions as it wiped out one owner's electrical tracer this past winter. It is thought that perhaps a log was put back into the dam too early.

Invading species such as zebra muscle was also addressed as a concern. A zebra muscle testing kit has been ordered and will be used this summer.

Road work

Kennisis Lake residents should get ready to see a quite a bit of road construction this summer. Resurfacing on the south shore, ditching around Bone Creek on the north shore, brushing and gravel balancing at Little Kennisis and spray patching everywhere is on the way.

Web site

Kennisis Lake residents are moving with the times. They have agreed to create a web site that will be relatively inexpensive to maintain throughout the year. The site will be used so that all residents and cottagers will be able to keep up with events and happenings at Kennisis Lake. Newsletters will be e-mailed to residents who are connected to the Internet.

Summer events

A boat safety course starting at 9 a.m. will happen at the Haliburton Forest on Saturday May 27, and another on July 15. The cost is $55 and you must be at least eight years old to attend. Participants will be tested for the operator's card at the end of the day.

The annual sailing regatta is scheduled for July 1 at the marina.

An hour-long fireworks display is scheduled for launch on July 1 at the marina starting at 9 p.m.

CAS workers give union a strong strike mandate

NELIA RAPOSO

Staff Reporter

Children's Aid Society workers in the Kawartha-Haliburton region voted 100 per cent to strike if they don't get the "pittance" they're asking for, Dan Carson, OPSEU Local 334 president and CAS intake worker, says.

"In three days of recent negotiations, they offered next to nothing," Carson says.

Negotiations started the end of April and 31 items were cleared from the table but the child protection workers and their employer still have some unresolved issues.

The list of issues includes a wage increase, better health benefits package, hiring and keeping qualified staff and more compensation for staff's use of personal vehicles. CAS workers also want an in-house lawyer.

Under the last CAS staff's three-year contract, which expired March 31, health benefits do not include eyeglasses and only covers basic dental care, Carson says.

Carson says his employer rejected OPSEU's joint benefit fund which would save CAS $76,000 in employee health benefit costs. The fund also guaranteed a zero per cent premium increase for two years. But they did not accept this.

The problem, Carson says, is the agency has more managers than they need. In 1997 they had 11 managers, now there are 23. It works out to one manager per four staff.

"Our management has doubled, our executive director is making $100,000 a year, we just had a $1.3 million deficit — we are tired of paying for them. The money is there, it's not our fault they can't manage it," Carson says. "We don't force them to buy more managers than they need."

CAS workers in this region want parity with Northumberland, who Carson thinks they will merge with eventually.

Carson says the Kawartha-Haliburton CAS has not reached the pay equity rates the Durham branch has. Local 334 members are $5,000 behind in pay equity and the executive director has yet to match the one per cent pay hike the Ontario government has given in the name of pay equity, he says.

When it comes to paying for mileage for staff driving their personal vehicles, Carson says he and his peers are reimbursed 28 cents per kilometre, whereas Northumberland gets 31 cents.

He is also upset because his agency can't attract qualified people "because the working conditions are horrible. Most new employees last about four months before they find another job in the field."

Starting wage for a Haliburton child protection worker is around $37,000; at Northumberland, the starting wage is $53,000, Carson says.

An in-house lawyer is needed, Carson says because "we spend days preparing legal papers and when we get to court it's a mess because we are not lawyers and we prepare our own documents."

The employer has told them a lawyer might be hired on a six-month contract. Carson says empty promises aren't good enough.

On May 10, the union was offered a final offer, Carson says. The following day a communiqué was issued by the employer saying that the union had walked away from the table.

"This could be a tactic by the director, he could be just shooting his mouth off," Carson says. "He'd like to see us out on strike when the snow is flying in our faces. Well it's not going to happen. If we strike it'll be on our schedule."

"If they have money to double their management, they have money to pay us the pittance we're asking," Carson says.

Paul Hudson, acting executive director at CAS, says the executive director has no comment. Hudson says they will not speak about the negotiations while they are still in progress.

Canadian Tire still reviewing proposal

Serrie does however stress that it is FAI's intention to bring Canadian Tire to Minden.

"That's our direction, that's what we're planning and hoping for, and that's what we're investing for - that's what we're working towards."

"Well, that's certainly not how it was presented to council," said Anson, Hindon and Minden Reeve Jeanne Anthon when told this information by The Echo. "The agreement is of course not final because there are clauses that have to be fulfilled over time and we don't anticipate a problem with those. So if he is taking the position that it's not done till it's done kind of thing then I suppose that's a legitimate position to take. But, we have no reason to believe that it's not going to be a Canadian Tire, so this is news. Maybe they always proceed cautiously, I don't know."

Anthon said she understood from conversations with the developer that it was definitely going to be a Canadian Tire.

"Very much so, we all did. And certainly the language used that day did not indicate that this was just a possibility. It was very firm. So I hope they're just taking a cautious road that until all the conditions of the offer are fulfilled then they are not in position to make a firm announcement."

Serrie denied that there is any confusion regarding the announcement made on May 11.

"Well, there isn't any confusion as far as I'm concerned. They were asking me almost on a daily basis, 'who's the tenant?, who's the tenant?' because there's some degree of excitement of course. So what we were saying is that we've bought the land in anticipation of doing this and we're spending whatever we have to spend to get them there."

"Well, that's not the language they used at our meeting," replied Anthon.

"They were so positive about that it was to be a Canadian Tire similar to the one in Aurora. They expanded on how it would be a great anchor to bring other businesses etc. so we've had no information to suggest that's not going ahead."

Serrie stressed that the sale of the land is conditional on some projects that have to be completed.

"MTO has to do their part to do the road, and access needs to be confirmed from the highway. Several conditions have to be met before these things can be finalised."

Anthon noted that maybe the reason for Canadian Tire and the development company to not make the proposed deal offi-son to believe that it's not moving ahead. They have invested a lot of money already on the site with soil tests and surveys and we are currently proceeding with a site plan agreement so they are in contact with the planner with what is required in regards to the site plan agreement."

Serrie said FAI has dealt with Canadian Tire in the past and been successful but official approvals can take some time.

"The development process is a very long, complicated one in that you're having to take large national companies and focus their attentions on one site rather than another and there's many hurdles that have to be overcome to get to that stage and that's what we're doing now," said Serrie.

When asked when he expects a decision, Serrie said, "It's always hard to anticipate somebody else's time schedule, but we anticipate one certainly before the summer's out."

When all the purchase conditions have been met FAI will finalize a deal to buy the Minden Business Park for $150,000 from the municipality. FAI will remain the landowner and will lease out the land to two tenants and is hoping an individually owned and operated Canadian Tire is one of those tenants.

"The way it works in general is Canadian Tire is either the landowner or the lease holder and the (individual) dealer then owns all the inventory in the store and the fixtures," said Canadian Tire's Sexton.

Unless the land is leased, the Canadian Tire Corporation usually owns both the land and building.

As for the Minden site, "Leasing or buying - I don't know which it is," said Sexton. "All I know is that we're looking at a possible site. If it's a potential purchase or a potential lease I don't know."

Serrie says that FAI plans to maintain ownership of the land and lease it out to Canadian Tire who will then lease it to the independent operator.

"Usually it's somebody local who lives in the community, which is why they're so value-added, because they get involved in sponsoring the local hockey teams, baseball, soccer, all that kind of thing because it's somebody that lives there. Usually that's how it works out," said Serrie.

What we were saying is that we've bought the land in anticipation of doing this and we're spending whatever we have to spend to get them there cial were the conditions that still need to be met.

"The one major condition of course on the offer to purchase is the entrance off Hwy 35. That's probably a major condition. And we hope that they will be proceeding next year. It was supposed to be going ahead this year. We've been negotiating with the MTO and our MPP to give it a priority as soon as they're moving ahead with their expansion of Hwy 35 that they give that entrance priority."

Although Anthon pointed out that Canadian Tire has not been noted on any documents to date she said, "There is just no rea-

Canadian Alliance leadership race

Stockwell Day takes aim at Liberal policies such as gun control

ERIK MARTENSSON

Staff Reporter

Stockwell Day rode into Lindsay on Friday promoting the Canadian Alliance and seeking support for his leadership campaign.

While Day didn't take any shots at the other Alliance leadership candidates during his half-hour after-dinner speech to about 200 Canadian Alliance supporters and members of the general public invited to a "town hall", he aimed his guns squarely at the current Liberal government.

In a speech permeated with the refrain "we need to change the government", Day didn't sway from Canadian Alliance policy. He concentrated on the familiar themes of a stronger justice system, less government and lower taxes.

Lower personal and small business taxes were the answer when The Echo asked Day his strategy for improving the economy of small town and rural Ontario.

"(Lower taxes) will provide the economic energy to see businesses grow, the economy grow, and it will draw business and investment here in a long-term way. That's the basic strategy we need to have in place, not a strategy of coming up with subsidies and grants and trying to pick winners and losers in business. Let's treat all businesses fairly, let's lower their taxes and let them get on with creating opportunities."

Day was also careful to balance economic growth with protection of the environment.

"We believe you can have, if you have the proper regulations in place, economic development along with sustaining, and in fact enhancing, the environment. It doesn't matter which industry. If you're talking about forestry industry, a process of reforestation and remediation to actually restore areas that have been forested to an even more productive rate than before they were forested, those kind of things can happen. We need to have that balance of economic sustainability and environmental enhancement. It can happen."

During his speech, Day, who is on leave as Alberta's finance minister, denied it was important for the Alliance to have a leader from Ontario but made sure to point out that he was originally from the province.

"Born in Barrie. Raised in Ontario. I'm your guy."

Asked by The Echo how he would repair the apparent rift between eastern and western Alliance members if elected leader, Day denied there was a disparity.

"Among members there are very few differences. Most people want to see the taxes lowered. They want to see a strong economic environment. They want to see a return to parliamentary democracy. They want to see the criminal justice system fixed in such a way that it's respecting the rights of victims and law-abiding citizens more than the criminals. Those are some of the basic issues. People in Ontario feel the same as people in British Columbia or Alberta."

There was no disparity in the crowd when Day made clear his and the Canadian Alliance's tough stance on Bill C-68 during his speech.

"Just scrap it," he said of the bill requiring the registration of all firearms.

Day said Bill C-68 would not reduce crime. "They're ready to throw you all in jail if you don't get all those things registered. There are 458,000 gun owners in Ontario I think. That's going to be a pretty big jail."

Instead, the current justice system and its "turnstile approach" would have to be reformed, said Day.

Day also promised that if he were elected leader he would implement a system where MPs were allowed to vote freely on issues in Parliament.

"I would insist that every member would take their marching orders from the bosses, and the bosses are not the whips and the people in the Prime Minister's office. The bosses are you the people, and you'll be the ones that are listened to under a Canadian Alliance government. That's the way it will be."

Day said he is confident that a Canadian Alliance candidate will win next federal riding election in Haliburton-Victoria-Brock.

The Canadian Alliance will be choosing its first national leader on June 24. One of Day's leadership rivals, Preston Manning, comes to Lindsay this Friday.

Creating a Highlands brand

All of us who are associated with the Haliburton Highlands have some pretty strong ideas of why we've bought into all this county has to offer. Mention "Haliburton Highlands" to people outside the area, however, and we'd probably be dismayed at the number of people who draw a mental blank. Stretching back to the recesses of their memories, they may come up with "cottage country" or "I think I went to camp up there when I was a kid", but no strong image of the county comes to mind.

Therein lies both the challenge behind coming up with a "brand image" of the Highlands and why it's so important to meet that challenge.

editorial

martha perkins

Put 10 people in a room and they'll tell you 10 different reasons why they're here, either as permanent or seasonal residents. They love the arts culture. They love to snowmobile. It's an affordable place to retire to. It's naturally beautiful. The small town atmosphere is the best place to raise children. This is the place where they were born and it's here they want to stay. It reminds them of someplace else, a place of their youth, perhaps in a country they have long since called home. They wanted to make cottage life their full-time way of life. Their children live here and they want to be close by. Work brought them here.

Some of those reasons are complementary; for some, they are mutually exclusive. For instance, there are those who think enjoying Highlands' beauty from the back of a snowmobile is a bit of an oxymoron, two opposites banging together and not always quietly.

How does a marketing company fit all those reasons into one unifying package without insulting or ignoring large segments of the population?

Carefully. And, it's hoped, with sufficient public input to avoid conflicts in the first place.

The Haliburton Highlands Chamber of Commerce is hosting a public meeting on June 8 to seek suggestions for the Highlands' brand image. It's important that the consultants hired to do the task hear as many divergent views as possible now, rather than when they've done all the work to come up with some image that unifies the county into a seamless whole. So if, for example, Sir Sandford Fleming College's description of Haliburton County as "Where it's art" leaves you out of the picture, say so, but also provide some of your own ideas.

The task seems daunting until you see some of the other brand images the consulting company has come up with. They really work, often surprisingly. "Thunder Bay - Superior by Nature" is a brilliant play on location. "Wasaga Beach - The Beach is Just the Beginning" capitalizes on the town's main drawing card while opening the door to other possibilities. "Mississauga - All the Right Connections" works because of the plane that's flying out of the g in the city's name. Some of the brand images, such as "North Bay - Just North Enough to be Perfect", are more generic but they're still a lot better than the Highlands' present slogan, "Closer than you think." How do we know what people are thinking? (Still, remember back to the 70s where every place tried to sell itself on being the place "for lovers"? Of course, that was just after the sexual revolution of the 60s so perhaps everyone was a bit preoccupied.)

After years of being "Muskoka's poor cousin," it's time Haliburton created an image based on what we have instead of what we are not, a bit like learning how to define Canadians in terms other than "we're not Americans." People should get involved with the process now instead of complaining about it later.

Lessons learned from a college boy

When nature calls, it's only right to answer. I learned this last year from Chris's terrible experience. Which was fortunate, because I believe that every cloud should have a silver lining. If that dark cloud belongs to someone else, so much the better.

It's not much of a story, really. But it illustrates a point. That being, an observant outdoorsman can learn from everyone, even a college boy.

He and I were canoeing down a river, catching fish. The action was hot. Maybe too hot. Chris is competitive and the bass were attacking spinners like mosquitoes on a skinny dipper. I was ahead in sizes and numbers. Not that I was rubbing it in too much.

It was about then that Mother Nature's soft voice first called his name. Smack dab in the middle of a smallmouth feeding frenzy. He should have answered. It's not nice to fool the old dame.

It wouldn't have been much of an issue either. We were anchored off a public camp ground and a set of freshly painted outhouses, crescent moons and all, cried for the pleasure of his company. Only an outhouse could truly appreciate his presence. I told him as much. The truth hurt, in the form of a canoe paddle.

"Go!" said I, while messaging my newest lump. "The fish will still be here."

And with that a hefty bronze back crunched down, as if to punctuate the point. I smiled, brought it in, released it, and cast again to the shoal.

Unable to bear this, the young fellow followed suit admirably, even distressed as he was.

Soon we raised anchor and drifted. It wasn't long before we passed beneath the central bridge of a town. A place, I suggested, that had all the modern amenities. Literally loaded with crappers. He grimaced, and reached for the canoe paddle but foresight and a newly formed lump had induced me to bring them astern.

He declined my offer to land, though. I was one up on him and the best section was conceivably close enough for me to fish while he went on his little errand. I said I'd wait, but he's not the trusting kind.

We continued on and fished together using the small spinners that had produced so well up to now. But nothing was doing. And so some movement was in order. Finally, the sun began to set, the bugs got hungrier, and the fishing was picking up. Mother Nature was now screaming at Chris. Even I could hear it. And so, reluctantly, he surrendered to her siren call.

"Pull up in those shrubs, now!" he ordered between clenched teeth.

I did so, fearing for the sanctity of my canoe.

"Do you have any copies of those stories you write?" he demanded.

"Why Chris," said I, somewhat flattered, "I had no idea they taught you to read."

"I wasn't going to read them. Paper is paper." With that, he lunged to shore, grabbed a handful of leaves, and found a comfortable seating arrangement in the undergrowth. Even as the sun set I watched a full moon rise. The song "Moon River" came to mind.

After that, he was in a better mood. But back at the landing he discovered that something gave him an itch in parts best left publicly unscratched. Later, his doctor suggested poison ivy.

Normally, this kind of thing is none of my business, and certainly nothing to write about. But there is a lesson to be learned here. Namely, in the outdoors, every decision should be carefully considered. Chris, after all, suffered in the end because he made a rash decision.

Cottage life:

The next generation

DOESN'T ANYONE AROUND here ever go to the dump?" Marie posed this question to the world at large, as though not really expecting a reply. Stella, her mother, could hardly believe her ears – or her eyes. Marie in the process of cleaning the cottage. That in itself was note worthy.

With the long weekend fast approaching, Marie was preparing for the arrival of her city friends, so her interest was somewhat understandable. But she was doing more than sharon

lynch

down

cleaning. She was a young woman with a mission. Armed with a mop, several brooms, cleaners, brushes, rags and garbage bags, she had set to work. Drawers were emptied of mouse nests, brooms poked under beds where the dust had not been disturbed for years and broken pieces of this and that were slowly accumulating in the yard as though for some grotesque sale.

Marie had just finished hauling from under the cottage the bottom half of a wooden kitchen chair with a split seat. It was this find that had prompted her question about the dump.

Stella was glad to see her daughter taking such an interest in the old family place. Although it had been left to Stella and her cousin in their grandmother's will, it was only this year that the younger generation had taken their inheritance seriously. As Marie moved through the cottage, mumbling and shaking her head at every ripped curtain and chipped mug, Stella found herself feeling a mixture of emotions.

It was an old cottage, added on to over many years. There were the eccentricities of any old building: the door that never quite shut, the saggy spot in the living room, the leaks and musty smells when it rained. But there were also the memories that poured over Stella every time she saw the old photos on the wall or the thread bare towels on their bedroom hooks. She had spent her childhood summers here and her parents' imprints were everywhere. It almost felt disrespectful to so critically clean away every trace of age. Marie saw the place with different eyes. To her, it was like an old outfit of clothes. A good washing, followed by repairs and possibly even some replacement pieces, were all crying to be done immediately before any public appearance was possible. It was a matter of both pride and enjoyment.

Stella sighed and retreated with her tea to the patio. To her relief, Marie had politely waved aside any offers of assistance, stating however that Stella might help with a trip to the dump later. As she settled herself in one of the new chairs Marie had bought, Stella's sister Adelle poked her head through the trees, her own cup in hand. Adelle's cottage was on the adjoining lot. Her son was the other inheritor of the old family place. "Marie sure is energetic," remarked Adelle. "Look at that pile for the dump. How did we accumulate too much?"

"Well, it has been a long time," replied Stella. "Mom and dad have been gone now for over ten years and they hadn't bought anything new for a long time before that." "I know," said Adelle. "Still, I kind of hate to see some of that old stuff go. Glad, but also sad. But then Marie doesn't have the same memories as you and I, Stel." "Adelle, do you remember that time we were playing monopoly in the kitchen and you got so mad you fell backwards on the chair and broke it? Mom glued it but it was never the same after that. And now it's going to the dump!"

They were both silent as they thought about the chair, the monopoly game and all the other games that had taken place in the kitchen on those leaky, rainy days. Finally Stella said, "Marie wants to reshingle the roof next year. No more leaks." After a pause, she added, "I guess that's progress after all."

pic of the past

This wintry scene shows members of the 109th Battalion in front of the Dysart Town Hall. Many Haliburton County residents answered the call to arms between 1914 and 1918 by joining the Lindsay-based Battalion. Some of the recruits took their initial training in the fair grounds where the Dysart arena is now located. The Battalion went to the trenches in September, 1916, and soon saw action. Eight men from Haliburton Village died in the battles that ensued, while 20 men from the Minden area also lost their lives. This photo is part of the Hoxie collection at Haliburton Highlands Museum.

Log chute down but not out

To the Editor:

Anger. Disappointment. Defeat. Frustration.

These are all the emotions I felt when I searched the website and found the answer: The Hawk Lake Log Chute Restoration Project did not receive Millennium Funding.

The project met all the criteria, and was accompanied by more than $48,000 in cash and in-kind donations. The application was revised twice on the advice of the Millennium Bureau assessment officer assigned to the file. It just didn't make the final cut.

However, Haliburton wasn't overlooked completely and several local projects did receive funding. I would like to congratulate them and encourage the public to support them.

When something like this happens you can wallow in defeat or forge ahead with renewed enthusiasm. I've done the former and am now gearing up for the latter: there's a lot of money out there, we'll just get it somewhere else!

I have been researching grants and have been working on an application to the Heritage Challenge Fund, a new $10-million program designed for projects involving heritage structures. Yesterday I received two calls from the Ministry of Citizenship and Culture regarding this new program and the gentleman to whom I spoke wants this project to apply — how encouraging!

I want to thank everyone who has donated money, time, labour, machinery, manpower and advice to this unique and valuable project. Remember that this is the only log chute left in the entire province. It will be rebuilt. And it will be a heritage site of both provincial significance and local pride.

Naturally, donations are still being accepted, and will continue to be accepted. After all, once we rebuild it we have to maintain it so we don't have to do this again!

Again, a huge thank you to all supporters and donors and to our local newspapers for coverage. Donations can be made to the Stanhope Log Chute Fund, RR #2, Minden, K0M 2K0. Or call me at 489-3554.

Despite wet and cold conditions the Haliburton high school track and field team took home eight gold medals from the Central Ontario track meet in Cobourg on Thursday.

Almost 60 athletes from HHSS competed at COSSA in hopes of advancing to East Regionals in Kingston this Thursday. Athletes had to finish in the top five of their event in order to qualify.

Hard work, training, and practice paid off for 29 individuals and four relay teams who will advance to East Regionals.

Congratulations to Kate Campbell, who broke the senior 400m hurdles COSSA record with a time of 1:06.0 and Caley Sisson, who broke the senior pole vault COSSA record with a jump of 2.47m.

The following is a list of the day's results: (Outstanding performances indicated with a star)

Lance Aggett: 4th Shot Put Jordana Bain: 2nd 400 M Hurdles

Strong play sees Red Hawk soccer team advance to play-off berth

PAUL FERGUSON

Staff Reporter

The Haliburton senior girls' soccer team pulled off an impressive 3-0 win in front of a couple hundred screaming fans Wednesday.

In doing so, the girls captured their first playoff berth in many years.

The Red Hawks' dynamic dual of Inge Haedicke and Crystal Alton proved to be too much for the visiting Fenelon Falls team.

Haedicke notched the hat trick by scoring all three of Haliburton goals and Alton picked up two assists with a determined effort.

The entire first half was spent in Fenelon Falls' territory as the Red Hawks dominated play.

After Haliburton took the early lead, hard work by Alton paid off as she made a nice centring pass to Haedicke who hammered it home taking a 2-0 lead.

The onslaught continued as the two girls continued to work effectively together as they teamed up for the third and final goal.

In the second half, Fenelon came on a little stronger, but could do little as the Red Hawks turned it up defensively.

Haliburton needed to establish some momentum heading into the playoffs, and coach Traci Hubbert couldn't be happier with their effort.

"I'm thrilled with the win today. They played their positions well, they worked together as a team, they had a lot of heart and they really wanted the win and they earned it," Hubbert said.

The Red Hawks finished off the regular season with an impressive 4-2-2 record.

Play-off win another notch in championship ladder

LIZ BROWN

The Haliburton Red Hawk senior girls' soccer team travelled to Lindsay on Friday to take on LCVI in the Kawartha West playoffs.

The winner of the match would not only take home bragging rights, but they would also advance to the championships being held in Port Hope on May 23.

Both Haliburton and LCVI came ready for a battle as both were at the top of their games.

In the first half, Haliburton scored unanswered goals off shots from Inga Haedicke and Crystal Alton. LCVI made it a game by netting one just before the end of the second half to cut the lead to one.

Minutes into the second half, an unfortunate injury took place and an LCVI player had to be taken to hospital.

An inspired LCVI came out flying as they scored off a direct kick.

However, Red Hawk Tanya Sisson killed LCVI's momentum as she answered right back with a goal off her own direct kick.

Inge Haedicke salted it away with her second tally, off a pass from Liz Brown for the final goal of the game.

Heather Little and Tracy Draker worked diligently throughout the game on defence, and the forwards and midfielders performed well offensively.

Coach Traci Hubbert says she is proud of her girls for making it this far. They all showed heart, class and focus.

This is the first time a Haliburton girl's soccer team has won their league in a least 12 years.

If the girls win their first game on May 23 they will automatically advance to the COSSA finals next Friday.

Haliburton's co-ed soccer club is set to play ball with expected registration of 120 kids aged six to 15

ERIK MARTENSSON

Staff Reporter

With summer around the corner, and the soccer season fast approaching, 86 aspiring Peles signed up at the Haliburton Soccer Club registration the first week of May.

Organiser Sharon Diblee is expecting the final number of participants to be around the 120 mark.

The co-ed league is divided into five age groups (6-7, 8-9, 10-11, 13-15) and runs through July and August with games on Thursdays from 6:30 to 7:30.

Diblee says the league emphasizes competition, with more attention given to skill development. Also, the participants don't have regular teams. The first half-hour will consist of skill training before the children are divided into alternating teams for the latter part of the session.

"It's step above pick-up games," she says.

As well, Diblee says that creating different teams each week means that if a player has to miss a game due to vacation or other commitments there's no sense of letting the team down.

The league was started four years ago. The first year was very informal but for the last three years the league has been involved with the Canadian Soccer Association.

Volunteer coaches attend a soccer coaching clinic before the season and also act as referees and coordinators. Since there is no permanent facility, coaches will call the players to let them know which field they will be playing at that particular week.

Flea markets help Ladies Auxiliary give $2,000 to Legion

DEREK MALCOLM

Staff Reporter

Members of Legion Branch 129's Ladies Auxiliary were out in full force Saturday holding a fund-raising flea market.

It is because of such events – and volunteer spirit – that the Ladies Auxiliary was able to donate $2,000 in support of the Legion-sponsored annual track and field meet this weekend.

Approximately 300 elementary and high school student athletes from across the county will participate in the meet. Opening ceremonies will start at 9:30 a.m. with the meet running from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. at Haliburton Highlands School, Saturday May 27th.

The branch's Track and Field Chairman, David Stirrett, encouraged everyone to "pray for good weather" that day.

Together with the Ladies Auxiliary, Branch 129 spends $3,000 per year on the event. The cheque was presented at the Legion to Stirrett and 1st Vice President Ethel Galvin during one of the Auxiliary's monthly flea markets which drew an attendance of over 500 bargain hunters, according to Flea Market Committee Chairman Jan Shipley.

Since 1982, the Auxiliary has been holding the flea markets to raise money for the community and to support the branch.

"We feel it's very important to support the youth of the community, because they're our future," said Jan Shipley.

Saturday's flea market raised an estimated $700-$800. The next one is June 17th on Father's Day weekend.

Verna Draper, left, president of the Ladies Auxiliary of Branch 129 of the Royal Canadian Legion, presents a cheque for $2,000 to Branch 129 1st Vice President Ethel Galvin, and Track and Field Chairman David Stirrett for this weekend's 4th Annual Haliburton Legion Track and Field Meet.

Dombind's down but is it out?

KERRY RILEY

Special to The Echo

The following are brief excerpts of the discussions held during the May 2000 Monmouth Council meeting.

A general discussion with Roads Superintendent Barry Dunford of the difficulties of adhering to the strict application requirements now in effect for the controversial dust suppressant Dombind, raised some questions about the compound's ultimate fate.

While popular opinion is that Dombind use is due to be phased out completely by next year, Dunford felt that there was some question about that deadline. "It may be around for more than a year," he commented.

Ultimately, Dunford noted, the demise of Dombind will increase, significantly, the pressure for more roads in the area to be surface-treated. "It's either that or live with the dust."

Further discussion of ongoing problems with the recycling bins at the dump, resulted in a resolution to post instructions on-site, and advise local businesses that all cardboard boxes must be flattened before they are deposited in the recycling bins.

Trails and Tours

Barrie Martin, representing the Haliburton Trails and Tours Network, brought council up to date on the association's accomplishments and plans for the next three years.

The Network hopes to make the Haliburton County trail system one of the best in Canada. He noted that the Network was very willing to help Monmouth, if it wished, to develop trails or tours in the area, pointing out that in addition to the Fall Colours and Studio Tours already in existence, a "rock and mineral" or "geology" tour would be of interest.

Council agreed that there was potential for both cross country skiing and hiking trail development in the township, and expressed some interest in the rock and mineral tour idea as well.

"With so much Crown land, we could perhaps select some areas for cross country ski trails," commented Reeve Keith Tallman.

Martin agreed, but cautioned against underestimating the upkeep required.

Council hoped to pursue these ideas further at a later date.

Lloyd Watson updates

Council approved an expenditure of $8,226.13 (not including GST) for tables, chairs and dollies for the Lloyd Watson Centre.

The Renovations Committee surplus of $5,283.00 will offset the expenditure, leaving a balance of $2,943.13 to come from general taxes.

The various groups making use of the storage room in the Lloyd Watson Centre will be asked to remove all items by May 31, 2000, in order to render possible a redesign of the area. Groups will be contacted again, once new space is available.

Kathy Rogers presented a report from the Millennium Committee. Street banners and hanging baskets are due to be installed before July 1. The quilted millennium banner, depicting area lore, will be unveiled June 11, at an afternoon tea, which will include a short theatrical presentation about the history of quilting. The sentinel light is ready to be hooked up as soon as the trench is dug for the wiring.

Plans are also underway for the millennium Canada Day celebrations.

Damage to Lloyd Watson

Council reviewed a letter of protest from Rick Huffman, president of the Minor Hockey Association, over charges levied towards the association for repairs required as a result of damage to the Lloyd Watson Centre that occurred during the annual Fred Agnew Memorial Tournament.

While Huffman did not question the billing, he did question the amount of $556.46 for the replacement of a damaged door lock, especially since the work was done by a company in Lindsay, and the bill included a charge of $312.18 for the service call. He noted that similar services were available within the county.

Huffman said in his letter that Minor Hockey had, as a group, purchased, over the last six years, more than $8,000 worth of ice time from the township, and used more than $4,000 of its proceeds to upgrade the arena facilities. He indicated that further plans to install a new sound system in the arena, at an estimated cost of $9,000 were "now under review" by the association, "as we feel that we have been taken advantage of with the lock situation."

"I know they raise money," commented Councillor Hilda Clark, "but if they damage something, they should pay for it."

Councillor Jim Deterling noted there had been damage associated with the tournament in the past for which the township had paid, and that the events needed better policing.

A resolution passed requiring that the Minor Hockey Association pay the repair bill.

Transition Board

Discussion of the various Transition Board committees, and their mandates, agreed upon at the last Bicroft, Cardiff, Glamorgan, Monmouth Transition Board meeting, resulted in the following appointments. Protection to Persons and Property: Jim Deterling; Recreation and Culture/Libraries/Naming: Hilda Clark; Planning and Development/Transportation Services: Gary Stoughton; General Government/Administration: Keith Tallman; Health Services/Waste Management Services: Rick Forget.

Council also agreed to transfer $3,000 to the Transition Board bank account, as agreed, also, at the previous transition meeting.

Special meeting

In a special meeting held May 9, 10 applications for the job of Parks/Building/Cemetery Caretaker and Arena Working Manager, were reviewed, and Ken Riley was selected to fill the position.

Budget items, including roads, JEPP funding, millennium playground equipment replacement, and reserve transfers were also discussed.

In Other Matters...

Permission was granted to the Monmouth Curling Club to insulate the club building, at their expense.

The annual fire agreement between Monmouth and Glamorgan was renewed for the year 2000 for the amount of $600.

Monmouth will advertise for a summer student to work in Parks/Cemeteries for the summer, and for a Red Cross swimming instructor.

A report from the HKPR District Health Unit, noting various unsatisfactory conditions in the Lloyd Watson Centre and the Arena Snack Bar, was reviewed.

Health unit helps with West Nile virus study

The Haliburton, Kawartha, Pine Ridge District Health Unit has been selected by the province to participate in a surveillance program to help gauge any introduction of the West Nile virus into Ontario.

Eighteen coops of sentinel chickens have been set up across the province to monitor any indication that the virus is spreading into the province. These chickens will be kept outside and samples of their blood taken each week to determine if they become infected with the virus.

At the same time, mosquitoes from the area will be kept, counted and their species noted.

If any blood sample from the chickens tests positive for the virus, the mosquitoes will be tested.

Two of these open-air coops are located within the Health Unit's boundaries, one in the Brighton area and the other in the Roseneath area.

"This is part of an early warning detection system set up to track only the possible introduction of the virus," says Dr. Alex Hukowich. "There is no need for people to be worried about the testing as we do not even know if the virus will make its way north. This is just a precautionary measure."

Several thousand people were likely infected in an outbreak of West Nile virus last fall in New York State, with only 60 people becoming ill. Of those infected, seven people later died, including one man from Ontario who had visited New York State. The virus is spread by mosquitoes, which become infected after feeding on infected birds.

Not everyone infected with the West Nile virus becomes severely ill. Symptoms usually occur three to 12 days after being bitten by an infected mosquito and can include fever, headache, body aches, mild rash or swollen lymph glands.

Details are still being finalized on the province's surveillance methods of dead birds. At this time though, the public is being asked to report large clusters of dead cows, robins or jays to the Health Unit. Single birds that have been killed by another animal or have been dead for some time cannot be tested for the virus.

BCGM talks back on track

Appointment of chairperson brings stability to the table, progress now seems likely

The following are brief reports of items discussed at the May 15 of the Bicroft, Cardiff, Glamorgan and Monmouth transition board meeting in Cardiff.

Order has restored itself to the BCGM transition talks in the form of a new chairperson, Carol Puffer Gillespie, and progress seems once again not only possible, but probable.

Gillespie, a past reeve of Lutterworth who also chairs the SLAHM transition board meetings, responded positively to the BCGM boards request that she chair their meetings, and her appointment was made official in an unopposed resolution.

Sharon Zohren was appointed to the position of recording secretary for the meetings, also by unopposed resolution.

In her introductory remarks, Gillespie explained her function as an unbiased, impartial, non-voting member of the BCGM team, whose function it was to see that the procedural by-laws were followed. She introduced Roberts Rules of Order as her preferred procedural guidelines, commenting that in her opinion they were "fair, efficient, effective and productive," but occasionally, as she freely admitted, "dry as toast."

Committees named

Without further ado, the board's attention was directed to the striking of the five committees which, together with various support staff, will be responsible for the bulk of the work of gathering and assimilating information into coherent recommendations for the board as a whole to consider.

The following appointments were made and accepted:

Protection of Persons and Property: Gary Simmons, Bicroft; Gary Burroughs, Cardiff; Brian Monaghan, Glamorgan; and Jim Deterling, Monmouth

Recreation, Culture, Libraries and Naming: Sindi Hawley, Bicroft; Suzanne Partridge, Cardiff; Donna Graham, Glamorgan; Hilda Clark, Monmouth

Planning, Development and Transportation Services: Bill Howe, Bicroft; Des Noblett, Cardiff; Chuck Viner, Glamorgan; Gary Stoughton, Monmouth

General Government, Administration (including Budget, location of Municipal Offices and Personnel) Austin Foulds, Bicroft; Helen McIntyre, Cardiff; Elva Bates, Glamorgan; Keith Tallman, Monmouth

Health Services, Waste Management and Environment: Kim Varty, Bicroft; Suzanne Partridge, Cardiff; Bob Winder, Glamorgan; Rick Forget, Monmouth

It was noted that sub-committees may be struck at a later date if required, and that an alternate voting member could attend, in the interests of expediency, if the named representative was not available.

Gillespie advised the new committee members, based on her experience elsewhere, that they must do their utmost to bring specific recommendations, and not just collections of statistics, back to the board.

It was decided that the municipal clerks should be given committee recommendations a week before the upcoming general meeting, for distribution to all board members.

Mail-in voting wins

A motion to institute mail in voting for the fall 2000 municipal elections carried, with Monmouth Councillor Hilda Clark opposed. It was also decided that a transition information update would be distributed to all affected ratepayers, either with interim tax bills, or in a separate mailing.

Human Resources

The hiring of a human resources consultant to advise on personnel matters was the next issue raised. Gillespie urged the board to act quickly on this issue, noting that under ideal conditions, various consultants would be asked to submit proposals for the board's consideration, but that this process took two months to complete in the SLAHM talks, and the BCGM talks were already behind.

The name of Hicks, Morley, Hamilton, Stewart and Storie, (Hicks, et al), a consulting firm from Kingston, with experience working with the Trillium Lakelands school board amalgamations, and the SLAHM talks, was raised as a possible candidate for the job.

Glamorgan Reeve Elva Bates noted that they came "well-recommended" based on their Trillium work. Monmouth Reeve Keith Tallman commented that "it's absolutely necessary for us to have a human resources consultant."

He suggested that Hicks et al be contacted as soon as possible about taking on the BCGM project. A motion to approach the firm for a quote was carried. Tallman added that, if necessary, a special meeting of the board be called to bring the personnel consultants on board as quickly as possible.

Municipal Office Location

Gillespie commented that, after the decision about a personnel consultant, the next most important decision facing the board was the location of the amalgamated regions municipal offices. She instructed the General Government and Administration Committee to be ready with its recommendation at the next board meeting, which was set for 7 pm, June 19 at the Bicroft Community Centre.

Andy Hillo of Harcourt painted this mural which adorns the wall of the Harcourt Community centre. The mural depicts a scene from the county's early days when the IB&O railway linked the eastern portions of Haliburton County to the Ottawa Valley.

Sherborne et al, Stanhope amalgamation

Board members have a hard time agreeing

A previous motion was rescinded, three motions were defeated and a board member voted against his own motion before the motion to replace the rescinded motion was passed.

Confused?

So were some members of the Sherborne et al and Stanhope Transition Board as for a while it looked as though the board wouldn't be able to hire the arbitrator they had previously agreed to hire to decide the location of the main office for the new municipality.

In the end it was agreed to hire Helen C. Cooper and Ian Wilson of Kingston at a cost of $2,985.30 plus expenses to decide between the existing Stanhope municipal building and the Sherborne office complex as the location of the main office for the new municipality.

The confusion on the arbitrator began when the original motion to hire an arbitrator passed at the last Transition Board meeting was rescinded. Some members of the Transition Board felt that the motion left the door open for the arbitrator to choose a third location other than the Stanhope municipal building or the Sherborne office complex in Dorset.

"I'm nervous leaving it open-ended. Everything has to be black and white," said Stanhope Deputy Reeve Murray Daniels.

The Transition Board knew whom they wanted to hire as the arbitrator but had a hard time agreeing on what the new motion to replace the rescinded motion should contain. After several tries the wording and content was finally agreed upon.

The arbitrators will be visiting the sites and attending a board meeting before they render their decision on the main office location June 27.

Vote by Mail

The new municipality will be voting by mail for the 2000 municipal election. The decision was made by Stanhope council, which felt that it was important that the public be given every opportunity to participate.

While there was agreement on the form of the vote there is some disagreement as to how much each municipality will pay for the election.

"It will be the first municipal election, it should be split 50/50," said Daniels.

"I don't know why you wouldn't split it based upon the number of voters," argued Stanhope Councillor Brian Lynch, referring to the difference in voters between the two municipalities. Currently Stanhope has approximately 5,000 voters compared to Sherborne's 4,000.

Sherborne Reeve Don Shortreed agreed that the costs be split 50/50 considering the extra expense Stanhope incurred sending its clerk Gerald Bain to vote by mail seminars in order to gain a better understanding of the process.

"Those costs have to be included in my view," he said.

"You're probably getting a good deal," added Stanhope Councillor Tom Gardner. "We're talking about a five per cent difference in voters which is probably worth about $1,000. We've probably already spent that."

The decision on voting costs will be made at a later date.

Cross-border dumping

Stanhope Reeve Eleanor Harrison brought it to the board's attention that even after amalgamation, residents of the new municipality will not be able to "cross-border dump" across the present municipality borders.

This is because the Ministry of Environment would require the new municipality to apply for new Certificates of Approval from the Ministry of Environment to allow for the wider geographic catchment area. (Current C of As are based on municipal boundaries.) Some people worry the Ministry would impose new rules if the C of As are opened to be changed.

The board cited a reluctance to "open a can of worms" and decided to push the county to move towards changing the policy.

"The county needs to be the one to spearhead this," said Lynch. "All the municipalities are affected by this. The county is a larger voice."

Council remuneration

The Transition Board decided that the salaries for the new council will be $10,000 for the Reeve, $9,000 for the Deputy Reeve and $8,000 for Councillors. All the members of council will also receive payment for mileage outside and within the new municipality. As well, it is expected that the new council will decide on a payment schedule per extra meeting.

Currently the salaries for Sherborne are Reeve $6,160, Deputy Reeve $5,500 and Councillors $5,280. Stanhope salaries are Reeve $6,000, Deputy Reeve $5,500 and Councillors $5,000.

The Transition Board agreed that the salaries had to be raised due to the expected increased workload.

"Probably for the next three years they will be going through bylaws and all those other things that need to be coordinated," said Stanhope Councillor Ann Barker.

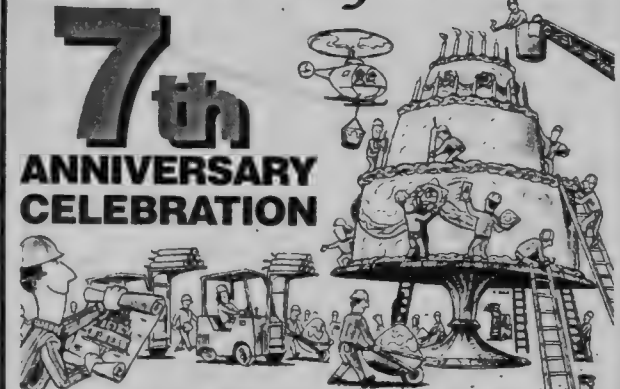

The new council may also change their salaries if needed.

The board felt the salaries had to be set before the election so potential candidates knew what remuneration would be ahead of time.

Human Resources

The Transition Board hired Hicks, Morley, Hamilton, Stewart, Storie at a cost between $50,000 - $55,000 to help the board with human resources issues. The firm is the same one the SLAHM and BCGM Transition Boards chose.

Alliance calls to Tories are unwelcome

To the Editor:

Apparently I am not the only one upset over phone calls from the Alliance's telemarketers.

Tom Long has already announced that he is not interested in the votes of "red" Tories who voted for people such as Leslie Frost, John Robarts and Bill Davis, so why call and bother me?

He has come out spouting the anti-women red-neck lines we already heard from the Reform, with backdoor apologies that this isn't him – just the party line.

Apparently the only role of the so-called Alliance will be to once more split the PC vote so the Liberals can slip into power and into our wallets again.

It would really like to see both the riding party associations write The Echo and assure their members that they have had nothing to do with this outfit getting the phone numbers of loyal Tories.

Dams should be used to reduce excessively high water

I have owned my property on Maple Lake since August of 1953. That will be 47 years come next August. In all those years I have only seen Maple Lake approach the levels seen this past weekend no more than a half a dozen times, and always following winters of heavy snow.

Last week I walked through the bush on my property and was concerned at the dangerously dry conditions. The ground underfoot was tinder dry! Considering that, I am reasonably sure that a substantial portion of that "5 inches of rain" we were supposed to have had would have soaked into the ground, and yet that seems to be Mr. Alyea's reason for the flood conditions. Later, Mr. Alyea goes on to say, "If people have built in areas that are prone to flooding without flood-proofing the property, there's not much that can be done." (Thousands of dollars worth of expensive docks, and a few boats were adrift last weekend. Surely those owners cannot be blamed for not anticipating the flood conditions that were to follow?) I wonder how the people of Winnipeg, Manitoba would react to Mr. Alyea's statement? Better he should stay in Ontario.

Given the lack of snow-melt this past winter and the unusually dry conditions which followed and, unlike the Winnipeg area, the dams we have on the system to control such conditions, I have to wonder why it all had to happen. Right now I'm sure the Trent doesn't need all this water.

Doctor clarifies his position on male cancer issues

To the Editor:

Having read the articles on prostate cancer and testicular cancer in the May 16 Echo, I felt much of the medical information you provided needs clarification. On several occasions in the article, I was not only misquoted but much of what I said was taken out of context. I hope the following information makes the medical perspective on both forms of cancer much clearer for your readers.

Prostate and testicular cancer - the real facts:

Prostate cancer

Prostate cancer is the most commonly diagnosed cancer in older men. One in nine men will be diagnosed with the disease at some point in their life and one in 27 men will, in fact, die of the cancer in this country. This form of cancer is more common than lung cancer and colon cancer (the other two common cancers in older men).

How does a man know if he has prostate cancer? The most important initial test is the digital rectal examination performed by the family physician. This is an essential part of the yearly physical all men over the age of 40 should be having. If the doctor feels an abnormality on the prostate gland, a blood test known as the PSA (Prostate Specific Antigen) can then be done. Further tests include an ultrasound of the prostate and a biopsy to identify whether or not a cancerous growth is present.

The PSA blood test is a very important test when the doctor suspects a cancer of the gland. It is also essential when we follow patients with known prostate cancer over time (if the PSA level starts to go up, the cancer may be advancing or spreading). The usefulness of the PSA test in all men as a screening tool for prostate cancer following a normal rectal examination is quite controversial. Many men will have a normal PSA test

yet will still have a prostate cancer hiding in the gland. Many men will have a mild increase in their PSA yet will not have cancer. What then does your doctor do if the PSA is normal or even if it is slightly elevated? A normal PSA is not assurance of a normal gland nor is a mild PSA elevation a diagnosis of cancer (this may lead to more invasive ultrasounds and biopsies needlessly). It is not a question of "is your life not worth $20?" (the cost of a PSA test) or having "the best test", but is the test accurate and is it useful? These are issues each male over the age of 40 should discuss with their family doctor. Do not be afraid to ask!

Once a prostate cancer is diagnosed, there is no "debate" as indicated in your article. Treatment depends on how aggressive the cancer is and the age of the patient. If the patient is elderly and does not have a very aggressive tumor, then often nothing more than the "watch and wait" approach is required. This individual may well die from some other cause long before his prostate cancer causes a problem. This person likely does not need treatment. If the tumor is aggressive and the patient is younger, then treatment such as surgery and chemotherapy may be required.

The bottom line is yearly physicals for men after the age of 40. This should include a digital rectal exam to check for prostate cancer.

Testicular cancer

Testicular cancer is a younger man's disease. It is one of the more common cancers seen in men under the age of 35. If the illness is caught early, there is a very good chance of a cure. If ignored or caught late, it can metastasize (spread) to other areas of the body.

How does one know if he has a possible testicular cancer? Self-examination is the key. All males from 15 years of age onward should get into the habit of examining their testicles monthly. Much like women should do self-examination for breast cancer every month, so too should young men examine their testicles monthly. This is best done in the shower when the skin surrounding the testicles (the scrotum) is relaxed. Each of the two testicles should be felt all over their surface for any hard lumps. A normal testicle feels smooth all over its surface except at one end where the epididymis (the tube that drains the sperm produced by the testicle) exits. The two testicles should feel essentially the same. Having two testicles provides the opportunity to compare one to another. It is not common that one testicle is dramatically different in size or shape as was indicated in your article. It is common for one testicle to sit lower in the scrotum than the other.

If an irregularity in the testicle is felt, this should be brought to the attention of the family doctor. It may not necessarily be a cancerous growth but a doctor's input should be sought. The next step would be an ultrasound and a referral to a specialist. If a testicular cancer is diagnosed, a single testicle will be removed. This does not affect a male's sexuality in any way. Further treatment such as radiation and chemotherapy may be required. Many men will donate sperm prior to such treatment so that if they decide to have children in the future, damaged sperm from the treatment will not be a concern.

The bottom line is self-examination and early detection. If caught early, young men will be cured and live normal healthy lives.

Articles on cancer appreciated by reader who's family has been touched by the disease

To the Editor:

Congratulations on the well written article on Ross Rigney and A Man's Cancer, both of which have touched our family in the space of two years.

It was so good of you to explain the PSA in the article because when we first heard it, we knew nothing and did not know where to look. Everybody was questioning, "What is a PSA?" Suddenly our daughter-in-law quipped, "I know what it is - I used to put them on the TV when I worked for Rogers Cable, it is a Public Service Announcement." We soon learned that that wasn't the case but we were so glad that it showed there was something wrong and a biopsy was soon done to confirm our worst fears.

Our experience was almost identical to the Rigney's. Were it not for the PSA, and the early detection, either of the cancers may not have been found.

We must also thank the specialist who was on both of our cases quickly and efficiently.

As Jamie Woodman said, "men's cancers are where woman's breast cancer was 20 years ago and we really need to educate the public."

Thanks again for such an informative article.

Reagan Brown creates the 60,000 calorie dress

Feature and photos by Martha Perkins

IN TERMS OF CALORIES, Reagan Brown's prom dress is worth 60,000 bursts of sugar-powered energy, or enough raw power to fuel a brisk 120-hour walk.

In monetary terms, it's cost her little more than some purple sheer material and yellow cotton. (Her fellow students at Haliburton Highlands Secondary School, however, can be said to have contributed at least $250 to the custom sewing project.)

Yet if you had to factor in her time, and the hundreds of hours she's spent working on the creation for this Saturday night's end-of-school celebration, then no student could afford such a designer dress.

Where's the math to back up these extraordinary claims?

Well, when you figure that Reagan has used approximately 3,000 wrappers from Starburst candies to make the dress, and each candy is worth 20 calories, with 12 candies to a pack, and each pack costing $1 at the school's vending machine, then you have a rather extraordinary way to illustrate the wonders of multiplication and division.

Reagan Brown's Starburst confection is sure to be noticed at this year's high school prom. And that's be her intention all along.

"I had to beat last year's prom dress," the 18-year-old OAC student says of the fanciful orange/green tutu affair she made with her mother Clarene. That dress, and the one she's making for this year, again with her mom's help, are her way of having fun with all the pomp and ceremony of a formal occasion.

"People take it too seriously and spend to much money on it," she says of many of outfits to be seen this Saturday night at the PineStone. "They look really nice, but I'd like to stand out and be different. I think it bugs me to look like everyone else."

Stand out she will, and in the gorgeous sort of way.

The dress is stunning, and while we didn't want to reveal it before Saturday night's debut, let's say you can create a pretty wonderful dress out of colourful pieces of wax-coloured – and still slightly sweet-smelling – squares of paper.

The top is a colourful chain-mail backless halter top. Reagan folded the wrappers into long strips and wove them into long strands, which her mother then sewed lengthwise onto the cloth backing.

For the drawstring skirt, they sewed a rudimentary skirt onto which Reagan has glued hundreds of ironed-out Starburst wrappers, creating a shingled look. To protect the wrappers, there's an overlay of purple gauze (to match the purple elbow-length gloves she made.)

She's not too worried about having the dress melt away on her if it rains Saturday night because of all the wax that's still on the wrappers.

All told, Reagan estimates that she used 1,500 to 2,000 wrappers on the top, and 1,500 wrappers on the skirt, with hundreds of wrappers left over to make enough corsages and boutonnieres for the entire graduating class.

Five months after she started working on the dress, however, she'll be glad when it's all she has to do on Saturday night is graciously accept the compliments of others.

Of course, the first question she's asked about the dress is how on earth she came up with the idea.

Like most good ideas, it wasn't born fully formed.

"I was eating the candies at school one day," she begins, when she wondered how long of a chain she could make with the leftover wrappers.

"Then I thought I should be productive," she continues. Around the same time, as she realized she was entering the last semester of her high school career, she began wondering what she'd wear to the prom. The two thoughts collided and she came up with the idea of a chain-mail dress made out of Starburst wrappers.

"I knew I wanted a two-piece design," she says. "I started making the whole dress out of chains but I worried I wouldn't have enough wrappers."

So then she came up with the idea of the skirt, which she originally thought would have to be short, once again because of the fear she wouldn't have enough "material."

Worry pursued her, however. "It was February and I didn't have enough but I had already committed (to making the dress) and everyone knew what I was doing."

It was then she put posters around the school asking for donations of Starburst wrappers. The donations really came pouring in once she attached an envelope to a bulletin board and students gladly joined her effort to make the candy-wrapper dress possible.

"Fridays were good candy days," she notes of her fellow students' sugar binges.

Her mother Clarene, who is Reagan's technical support, especially whenever a sewing machine is required, says "the neatest thing about all of this is the school was so supportive."

"It's a small school," Reagan says, and the students' reaction is more like "Oh, what's Reagan up to now?" rather than ostracizing her for stepping outside the norms of teen fashion. Given that nearly everyone at the school are friends who have grown up together, "you feel more comfortable to express yourself."

Now her dad, Dave, sometimes wishes the "expressing yourself" didn't have to be in a backless, halter-top sort of way, but like his wife, he admires Reagan for her creativity and panache.

"It's a fun time, let's make it fun," he smiles before joking that he's going to walk closely behind his daughter to truly watch her back whenever a young male teenager approaches.

Over the past five months, Haliburton teenager Reagan Brown has linked together hundreds of Starburst candy wrappers to make her prom dress, which will be unveiled on Saturday night. At top, she's draped in wrappers

Snowmobile season was a good one despite a lack of snow

MARTHA PERKINS

Editor

The following are brief reports of items discussed at the May 13 annual general meeting of the Haliburton County Snowmobile Association at the PineStone, with about 30 members in attendance.

It was a short season, but still a good one for the association and snowmobilers, members agree.

When there was snow, the trails were kept in really good shape, says Bob Picard, thanks to the new grooming equipment, paid drivers who were more familiar with the equipment and the trails, and the many trail improvements.

"One good season will put us back on track," said club president Steve Berry.

Expecting that not as many trail permits will be sold this fall as snowmobilers wait to see if there'll be much snow, the HCSA is going to hold off on some of its proposed trail work. If permits sales are not as sluggish as some people think they'll be, they'll go ahead with the work in the fall, but the HCSA doesn't want to spend money it might not have. (Some people are predicting a 25% drop in permit sales in reaction to this past season's brevity.)

MARTHA PERKINS/Echo

HCSA president Steve Berry congratulates Peter and Eileen Overington on being named honorary life members in appreciation of the many years they have volunteered their time for the associations' efforts.

It's been argued that permit fees should be discounted this year to lure snowmobilers back into having faith in Mother Nature, but Berry says the club has worked hard to get the trail fee up to where it should be and he doesn't want to take a step backwards. He noted that most of the work done on the trails is by volunteers, and if their time had to be factored in, trail fees would be a lot higher.

On the good news front, he said La Niña, the weather system that caused the mild winter, is disappearing "and the weather should go back to the good old days."

Talking with other clubs, "there seemed to be a really positive feeling about weather and sales and the whole sport in general," he said.

ATVs

ATVs and off-roading pressures on trails will be a major issue for the club to face in the near future.

Off-road vehicle sales are surpassing those of snowmobiles and all those riders will want somewhere to go. Some of them will want to go on the HCSA's trails.

The HCSA has permission from private landowners to allow trails to cross private land, but permission is often granted on the basis it's for the winter only. It's not known how landowners would respond to requests to allow year-round use.

"ATVs are here and they're here to stay, but if it costs the club all the trails it has on private property, what good does it serve. We're treading lightly," Berry said of the executive's search for a policy.

"There's lots of discussion but nothing written in stone about how we'll deal with it," said Picard.

Dave Freeman noted that 80% of snowmobilers own ATVs. "It's an industry we have to look at," he said. "It can have a positive effect and it can also have a detrimental effect."

At present, the HCSA's policy remains that no wheeled vehicles are allowed on its trails.

Groomers and trails

The new grooming machines have also required less maintenance by volunteer Paul Daigle, who was applauded for his work.

"You've definitely been investing in your equipment," reported outgoing treasurer Joachim Matysek. As a result, the groomers are "not sitting there on the side of the trail broken down."

Last year's investment was $150,000 as part of the club's promise that as much of the revenue from permits as possible goes to the trails, not administration.

Freeman noted that the $30,000 paid to the groomers was money that was therefore put into the local economy.

"We try to keep everything local," Steve Berry noted.

An application for funding for more trail improvements has been made to the Ontario Federation of Snowmobile Clubs.

Freeman said he was really well received by Dysart et al council when he brought up the idea of lobbying the provincial government to provide some sort of property tax incentive to landowners who allow trails to cross their property. He used as an example the managed forest program, which offers reduced tax rates to people who work towards sustainable management of their forests.

The HCSA continues to have a good relationship with the Haliburton Highlands Trails and Tours Network, said representative Peter Overington. "It's worth staying with them because they've come to realize we're quite reasonable and we're there to help."

to fill as she steps down from being the club's liaison with private landowners.

Without landowners agreeing to allow the trails to cross the property, the club would have far fewer trails. Reynolds approached the job of keeping landowners happy with tact and diplomacy.

No one was willing to step forward to take her place.

The building has a new furnace, thanks in large part to Walker's Heating and Cooling. The Haliburton company donated 90% of the cost of the furnace which was only slightly used.

Membership

More than 3,000 HCSA trail permits were sold, allowing the club to hold onto its title as North America's largest single snowmobile club. (Each permit gives the snowmobiler status as a club member.)

Boundaries

The HCSA would like to be part of the region to the south, with which it shares many of the same viewpoints and programs. At present it's linked with the Ottawa Valley area and "we have no empathy with them, no relationships with them," said Overington.

New executive

The following people were named to executive positions: Steve Berry, president; Guard Campbell, 1st vice-president; Bob Picard, 2nd vice-president; Dave Freeman, secretary; Bob Picard, trails chairman; Peter Overington, business administration; Myrlene Foster, membership; Paul Daigle, building chair; Andy Chvedukas, chief warden; Dave Freeman, driver training; Joe Johnson, trail signs; and Bob Johnson, policy and procedures. No one allowed their name to stand for treasurer, ways and means and land use.

Berry noted the club had three new directors and no resignations.

"Think positive, think snow," he told everyone at the close of the meeting.

Joe Johnson, Myrlene Foster, Steve Berry, Dave Freeman, Bob Picard, Peter Overington, Bob Johnson, Andy Chvedukas and Paul Daigle were elected to the HCSA's executive.

Trail policing

Fourteen new volunteers were trained to help patrol the trails and over the season, 350 sleds were checked with 17 warnings issued. Last year, given the longer season, 1,600 sleds were checked.

"Haliburton County is fortunate to have the co-operation of the OPP," Berry said, referring to the way the OPP helps to make sure snowmobile rules are being enforced. "Ours is one of the real success stories in the province."

The provincial government has recently agreed to increase funding for trail enforcement.

New riders

Sixty-three students took the snowmobile safety course with a 100% pass rate.

Snowmobile Alliance

The joint venture of five district snowmobile clubs has had its share of stresses this past year, but it is poised to celebrate many successes, HCSA representative Larry Tupling said.

"It's tough when you're dealing with five clubs and five different personalities," he said.

A new manager will soon be hired and other clubs have expressed interest in joining.

The newsletter has been judged one of the best around.

"All five clubs should be proud of what's been accomplished," said Picard, praising Tupling for his work with the association.

Picard said "I'm confident the ASA will improve with time and be around for a

More help

A person will be hired to take over the association's day-to-day business affairs. The job is too onerous for the volunteer executive members. "We think it's a positive thing," said Marj Kennedy, who's stepping down as chairperson of the business administration committee.

Building

The club continues to pay down its mortgage on its building in Haliburton's industrial park. There was a break-in, requiring a new security system, and someone was hired to help with the cleaning.

Walk for Water

Annual event that raises money for people in developing countries flows out of Haliburton

NELIA RAPOSO

Staff Reporter

Walk for Water, a community project that began in Haliburton County 17 years ago, is now taking place in Peterborough and Newfoundland as well.

Former Haliburton resident Gerry Feltham, who started the project to raise money to dig wells in developing countries, has organized a Walk for Water in Glovertown, Nfld. and there will also be a walk in Grand Bank, Nfld.. JoAnne Delaire is in charge of the new Peterborough walk.

The local walk, organized by Help a Village Effort committee members Ron and Toos Reid, takes place around Head Lake Park, at 9:30 a.m. on June 3.

The goal is to raise $40,000 in pledges towards building fresh water systems in countries such as Nigeria, India, Gambia, Thailand and Nicaragua..

Money raised will be doubled by the Canadian International Development Agency. It matches the money raised from the Walk, one to one.

"Hopefully our $40,000 becomes $80,000," Ron Reid said. Haliburton residents raised about $20,000 last year.

"We take the availability of water for granted because in Haliburton we are surrounded by lakes but some people in less developed countries don't even have a well in their village," Toos Reid said.

By doing "a little something for somebody else, it will make them come together and feel good about helping others," she said, encouraging families to help raise money as a team.

"We are hoping a shorter walk will bring more people," Toos Reid said about the Walk's five kilometre distance compared to 30 km Walks in the past.

Participants "won't have to take a day out of their life — just a morning," she said.

About 95 per cent of pledges go directly to projects in less developed countries, Ron Reid said.

Anyone with $50 in pledges or more will receive a H.A.V.E. commemorative t-shirt.

NELIA RAPOSO/ECHO

Ron and Toos Reid say people in the Highlands often take drinking water for granted while many people in developing countries do not have that luxury. Walk for Water is looking to raise money to build fresh water systems to aid those countries

Posture yourself for good balance

As we age our balance gets worse, so correct it now. Balance is the result of correct body alignment.

If your posture is poor, your balance can be off.

Poor posture can cause weaker muscles in certain areas of the body, as well as pain.

You need to have strong abdominal muscles as well as low back muscles (which are your core muscles).

If your core area is weak this can create muscle imbalances, eg: posterior and anterior pelvic tilts.

TO THE MEMBERS OF COUNCIL, INHABITANTS AND RATEPAYERS OF THE CORPORATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF MONMOUTH

We have audited the consolidated balance sheet of the Corporation of the Township of Monmouth as at December 31, 1999 and the consolidated statement of operations for the year then ended. These financial statements are the responsibility of the Township's management. Our responsibility is to express an opinion on these financial statements based on our audit.

We conducted our audit in accordance with generally accepted auditing standards. Those standards require that we plan and perform an audit to obtain reasonable assurance whether the financial statements are free of material misstatement. An audit includes examining, on a test basis, evidence supporting the amounts and disclosures in the financial statements. An audit also includes assessing the accounting principles used and significant estimates made by management, as well as evaluating the overall financial statement presentation.

In our opinion, these consolidated financial statements present fairly, in all material respects, the financial position of the Township as of December 31, 1999 and the results of its operations for the year then ended in accordance with the accounting principles disclosed in note 1 to the consolidated financial statements.

Conference teaches leadership Hard work pays off for local student

NELIA REPOSO

Staff Reporter

Ryan Hutson acted as ambassador of Haliburton Highlands High School during a weekend leadership conference in early May.

Hutson was one of about 100 ambassadors from schools across the province to attend the Hugh O'Brian leadership conference at Circle Square Ranch in Arden, Ont.

He was chosen to represent his school, teacher Brenda Robinson says, because he and friend, Ryan Wood, started what has become an annual golf tournament for kids ages 10 to 15. For the last three years the weekend tournament has taken place in August.

"I hate to see people who discourage kids. It's happened to me before and I don't see any reason for it," the 15-year-old says.

Besides organizing the tournament, Hutson is very involved with hockey.

In order to qualify for the free educational weekend workshop, Hutson had to describe why being a leader was rewarding and challenging. He wrote:

"For me the most rewarding thing

NELIA RAPOSO/Echo

Despite his age, Ryan Hutson continues to aim high.

about being a leader is the feeling you are giving something back to your community... The most challenging thing I find about being a leader is earning the trust of your teammates and friends. This can be a hard thing to do but you just have to encourage them to keep trying what they are struggling with."

Hutson says out of all the panel discussions on education, law, entrepreneurship, and media, he liked the media talk best. The Grade 10 student says he wants to go into sports writing or broadcasting.

"Three other students who have gone to the conference in the past still keep in touch. It's good because they build strong networks," Robinson says.

The leadership program originated in the United States in 1958 when actor Hugh O'Brian returned from Africa, inspired by a nine day visit with Dr. Albert Schweitzer. It's been happening in Canada since 1981. Although it started in the U.S. the weekend leadership seminar is Canadian focused.

Some of Canada's best performers will be taking to the stage at the Northern Lights Pavilion this summer as part of the new Haliburton Highlands Concert Series.

Opening the series on May 26 is pianist Richard Raymond.

A performer with the Toronto Symphony, the Montreal Symphony and virtually every other major orchestra in Canada, his musical engagements have taken him round the world.

In 1992, he became only the second Canadian to win the prestigious Montreal International Competition and soon after he became the first-ever Canadian to win the Van Cliburn Competition. Most recently, he received a top prize at the William Kapell Competition.

Tickets are available at the door on the night of the performance for $25, or in advance at Nancy's Flowers in Haliburton and Minden IDA. The performance starts at 7:30 p.m. at the Northern Lights Pavilion.

Snowdon Township 1999 Financial Highlights

TO THE MEMBERS OF COUNCIL, INHABITANTS AND RATEPAYERS OF THE CORPORATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF SNOWDON

We have audited the consolidated balance sheet of the Corporation of the Township of Snowdon as at December 31, 1999 and the consolidated statement of operations for the year then ended. These financial statements are the responsibility of the Township's management. Our responsibility is to express an opinion on these financial statements based on our audit.

We conducted our audit in accordance with generally accepted auditing standards. Those standards require that we plan and perform an audit to obtain reasonable assurance whether the financial statements are free of material misstatement. An audit includes examining, on a test basis, evidence supporting the amounts and disclosures in the financial statements. An audit also includes assessing the accounting principles used and significant estimates made by management, as well as evaluating the overall financial statement presentation.

In our opinion, these consolidated financial statements present fairly, in all material respects, the financial position of the Township as of December 31, 1999 and the results of its operations for the year then ended in accordance with the accounting principles disclosed in note 1 to the consolidated financial statements.

MARTHA PERKINS/ECHO

In memory of his father Oswald Gliddon, Bill Gliddon has donated $3,000 to the Haliburton Hospital Auxiliary to purchase two new electric beds for the new long-term care centre.

He chose this type of memorial because everyone benefits from the new healthcare facility and while funding has contributed towards construction, help is always needed for the furnishings.

The new beds make it easier for staff and patients to change the bed's position. Accepting the cheque in the new emergency department are Auxiliary President Willie Cox, left, and Vice-president Heather McMullen, right.

Help the hospital and earn your 15 minutes at the same time

Do you want to become famous in Haliburton?

Just create a name for the new Gift Shop, soon to be opened in the Haliburton Hospital.

For a donation to the Haliburton Hospital Auxiliary of one loonie, you can enter the contest. Just write the name of your choice on a sheet of paper. On the back, write your name and phone number. The new name will be chosen in June and the winner will be notified.

Just leave your envelope in the Reception Area of the hospital, in the blue box, together with a loonie for each name chosen; or at The Echo Office.

The Haliburton Hospital Auxiliary thanks everyone for all their suggestions.

High School musicians score well in regional festivals

HHSS music students had nine entries in our local Haliburton

Highlands Music Festival in March. Three of the groups were asked to play in the Highlights Concert and the music groups received a scholarship, thanks to the generosity of donors to the scholarship fund.

The Swing Band went to Bancroft to participate in the North Hastings Music Festival and received the highest standing in their class with a mark of 84.

The Flute Choir travelled to Peterborough and took first place in all three classes that they entered in the Kiwanis Festival. In one class, the group was awarded a mark of 90, their highest mark ever in Peterborough.

The Concert Band and Swing Band are the hosts this year of the first Trillium Lakelands District School Board

Music Festival. This event brought high school musicians to Haliburton from all across the district.

At the Orillia Kiwanis Music Festival, the Flute Choir was awarded a Gold standard of performance and another mark of 90. The group is being awarded a trophy for "Best Woodwind Ensemble" at the festival and an offer to perform at the "Stars of the Festival" concert at the Orillia opera house on Monday, May 29.

All of these groups and others can be seen and heard at the HHSS students' annual Spring Concert at the Northern Lights Pavilion at the high school on Wednesday, May 24, at 7:30 p.m. Everyone is welcome to attend. Admission is by voluntary donation at the door.

The Monmouth Community Police Association is to be commended for its excellent roast beef dinner served on Saturday, May 20, 2000. Over 200 people took advantage of their annual event held at the Lloyd Watson hall.

It is interesting to note that many cottagers enjoy this supper as well as other "meals" that are organized throughout the year by other groups. Thanks from all of the regulars as well for a meal of tasty food.

Dave and Thora Fideau, who were residents here for some time and known by many, have moved to Digby, Nova Scotia. Dave had been arena manager and grounds keeper (etc) for Monmouth Township. Thora worked in the home making services field. Friends wish them well at their new residence and new work. They will be missed but still have connections here, since daughters Mandy and Laura still reside in Wilberforce.

We wish Ken Riley well as he takes over the arena (etc) position.

Garage sales blossomed on this first holiday weekend of the summer. One of the most popular was at the United Church in South Wilberforce.

Sympathy of friends in the community is extended to Carol and Jim Lawr and their family. Their twin sons, born prematurely in Peterborough, were taken to Sick Children's Hospital where Michael died last week. Funeral service was held at St. Margaret's, Wilberforce, Saturday, May 20. Our hope is for improved health for brother Matthew still in hospital.

Best wishes to Arlene and Dan Matthews, whose family surprised them with a party to celebrate their 40th wedding anniversary on Sunday evening at the Wilberforce Legion. Friends and family enjoyed a good time with Dan and Arlene, wishing them many more happy years together and sharing many happy memories.

Consolidated Financial Statements For The Year Ended December 31, 1999

TO THE MEMBERS OF COUNCIL, INHABITANTS AND RATEPAYERS OF THE CORPORATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF SHERBORNE, McCLINTOCK, LIVINGSTONE, LAWRENCE & NIGHTINGALE

We have examined the consolidated financial statements of the Corporation of the Township of Sherborne, McClintock, Livingstone, Lawrence and Nightingale for the year ended December 31, 1999 from which the accompanying summary financial statements have been prepared. We have reported on the consolidated financial statements without qualification on January 19, 2000.

In our opinion, the accompanying summary financial statements fairly summarize the information contained in the consolidated financial statements upon which we have reported.

Some of Haliburton's and Ottawa's finest join forces for a photo opportunity.

Army Cadets train in nation's capital

by Dan Collings

Foul weather did not prevent 24 cadets and staff of the Haliburton Army Cadet Corps from enjoying a training weekend near Ottawa last week.

Members of the Haliburton 1129 Royal Canadian army Cadet Corps attended training exercise "Personal Best" at the Canadian Forces Base Connaught, near Ottawa, May 12 - 14.

The cadets were to participate in a training weekend of activities which included rifle shooting, abseiling, navigation by map and compass, fieldcraft and sports.

Saturday's heavy rains and strong winds forced the commanding officer to cancel training and the Cadet Corps had a cultural tour of Ottawa.

Nineteen local youth and their five staff members attended the Canadian War Museum where they saw displays and artifacts representing Canada's military history from the 1800s to modern times and Canada's peacekeeping roles around the world. A brief walk to the Parliament Buildings and the cadets took in the sights and took advantage of photo opportunities with a Royal Canadian Mounted Police officer in his Red Surge. After lunch, it was off to the National Aviation Museum to look at vintage aircraft and take part in the many interactive aviation displays.

Upon the cadets' return to CFB Connaught, the weather cleared and training resumed at the obstacle course, abseiling tower and indoor air rifle shooting range. A tremendous amount of team effort from the cadets resulted in the whole group successfully completing training and having some fun in the process.

The training exercise was the last of this training year as these 12 - 18 year old cadets now prepare for their Annual Review and Graduation Parade to be held at the Haliburton Curling Club at 2:30 p.m., Sunday, May 28, 2000. All are welcome to come and see local cadets at their best as they receive their awards, perform demonstrations and show off static displays. Any boys and girls who are interested in joining cadets when we start up again in the fall may wish to attend the Annual Review to see what they will learn.

Zero tolerance for school bullies

Discussions are underway to help prevent aggression and violence in county high school

Whoops! Contrary to the last report, there still are two remaining meetings for the school year 1999/2000!

Highlights of the May 2nd meeting

- A parent visited the meeting ... congratulations to this interested lady! All are welcome and encouraged to attend.

- Amy Brandon gave the Student Council report. Amy was congratulated for receiving the Ontario Junior Volunteer award.

- Gary Brohman's principal's report noted that Grade 9 mark distribution is in, and soon the charting of final median marks will be done to see how the school is doing scholastically in this area.

One of two exciting developments is the publishing of a new school song, "Red Hawks Forever", in the fall students' handbook. This song, along with 56 songs from other schools, and "We are the 21st Century" sung by two students from every school in the Trillium Lakelands School District, will be included on a Millennium Project CD.

The second development is the year 2001 hookup of Haliburton on an Ontario-wide WAN [wide area network], connecting school boards, libraries, hospitals, and other public services.

- Of special note from the "Creating Effective School Councils" workshop was the report of a possible shortage of school principals in the next three years.

The Parents' Council is in an advisory position with regard to the hiring of a new school principal as the need arises.

- A concern was raised regarding students being picked on at school. The high school has a policy of zero tolerance for aggression and violence. A discussion was held on methods to make our school environment one that promotes safety and wellness.

Future Events

Look out for the "Haliburton Highlands Secondary School Parent Feedback Survey". The completed forms will be used to evaluate how the school is doing and to improve the school for both students and parents. This survey is your opportunity to have input into your children's school life.

- At our next school council meeting on May 30th, we will be examining the present HHSS Parents' Council's constitution, with a view to bringing it up-to-date.

- As you can see, the Parents' Council grapples with issues which have far-reaching and timely relevance for your children, and you as their parents need to become involved. An open invitation exists to any and all who want to keep informed regarding the "goings on" at HHSS.

- See you on May 30th from 7:00 - 9:00 PM in the classroom next to the library.

708 OBITUARIES

CAIN, CELIA: At Haliburton Hospital on Wednesday morning, May 17, 2000, in her 93rd year. Beloved wife of the late Earl Cain. Loving mother of William (Eleanor) of Toronto, Donald (Edith) of Oshawa, Clayton (Shirley) and Robert (Joan),
 both of Gooderham. Lovingly remembered by her eleven grandchildren and seventeen great grandchildren. Dear sister of Alexander
 Reil of Peterborough and Alberta
 Switzer of Gooderham. Predeceased by her daughter Eileen, her sisters Mary, Hannah, and brother Leonard. Friends were invited to call at the HALIBURTON COMMUNI-TY FUNERAL HOME, Hwy. #118,
 Haliburton, (705) 457-9209, on Friday afternoon, May 19, 2000 from 2-4 and 7-9 p.m. Funeral Service was held in the Chapel on Saturday morning, May 20, 2000 at 11 o'- clock. Interment Glamorgan Cemetery, Gooderham. As expressions of sympathy, donations to the Heart and Stroke Foundation or the Canadian Diabetes Association would be appreciated by the family.

CA

LAWR, JOHN DAVID MICHAEL:
 Peacefully at Sick Children's Hospital, May 16, 2000. Beloved infant son of James and Carol Lawr. Loving brother of Matthew, Kelly, Vincent, and Jackie. Loving grandson of Jack and Mary Lawr (Wilberforce) and Ruth Lewis (Toronto), Denver Lewis (Haliburton). Dear nephew of Aunt Jackie, and Uncle
 Joe, Aunt Jeannette and Uncle
 Sheldon, Aunt Jen and Uncle Philp,
 Aunt Cathy, Uncles Greg and Andy
 Lewis, Great Uncle David and Aunt Betty. Dear cousin of Ivan,
 Jacqueline, and David Ouellette,
 Valerie, John, Donald, Jenny Muise,
 Sara, Robert, Ronald, Wendy and
 Amy Nicholls, Cody, and Catherine
 Lawr, and Cynthia Bamborough.
 Also, loved by Auntie Ann and Uncle Donny, and Carol and Bill
 Dewey. Friends were invited to call at ST. MARGARET'S ANGLICAN CHURCH, Wilberforce, on Saturday, May 20, 2000, for Funeral Service at 2 o'clock. Interment Es-sonville Cemetery, Essonville. As expressions of sympathy, donations to the Haliburton Highlands Health Services Foundation (HHHS Foundation - Birthing Room) would be

709 IN MEMORIAM

FEIR, CREIGHTON - In loving memory of a dear husband, father and grandfather who passed away
 May 19, 1993.
 It's lonely here without you
 We miss you more each day,
 For life is not the same for us,
 Since you were called away.
 Sadly missed by wife Helen and family.

SPRING, BERT ASHBY - In loving memory of Bert Ashby Spring, died May 20, 1998.

It is hard when our loved ones have reached their day
 When they say good-bye to all;
 But harder by far when they pass away
 With no good-bye at all.
 Could we have been there at the hour of death
 To catch the last sigh of his parting breath,
 His last faint whisper we might have heard,
 And breathed in his ear one loving word.
 Dad, Mom and David.

709 IN MEMORIAM

STAMP, BRANT - In loving memory of a dear dad and poppa, who passed away May 28, 1992.
 A special smile, a special face,
 Part of our family, we can never replace,
 Loved and remembered every day
 Missed more, than words can say.
 With precious memories, Brenda and Robin and families.

STAMP, BRANT - In loving memory of a dear husband who passed away May 28, 1992.
 My heart is torn
 And will never completely heal
 The pain may have dulled
 But it is there ever real.
 The evidence of your life is all around
 Whenever I see this it makes me proud.
 My thoughts are always with you
 Your place no one can fill
 In life I loved you dearly
 In death I love you still.
 Sadly missed and lovingly remembered by wife Eileen.

712 CARDS OF THANKS

WE WISH TO THANK everyone who helped us celebrate our 50th Anniversary, April 20. They helped us on a very happy day, very much.
 Thank you for all the flowers we received. They were very much appreciated plus some gifts. To Karen, Norman, Maria, Thomas and Jenny, and their uncle Tom, thank you for your great help. Thank you all who could not attend but sent cards;
 we love having those also. Isabel
and Chuck Perrott.
